Population Highlights ◆ Second Quarter 2010

As of July 1, 2010 the population of British Columbia reached 4,530,960. Over the last year, B.C.s population grew at a rate of nearly 1.6 percent—with the second highest growth among provinces, marginally behind Saskatchewan. The average growth across Canada was 1.2 percent.

Annual Growth: 2009 to 2010

Between 2009 and 2010, B.C.'s population increased by 70,668. This growth was fuelled by net immigration (+36,707), natural increase (+13,323) and net inter-provincial migration (+9,367), as well as non-permanent residents (+11,271).

Annual population estimates are referenced to Jul 1. As such, the release of second quarter estimates by Statistics Canada represents the release of annual estimates. This release of 2010 population estimates also revises the previously released 2008 and 2009 population estimates.

Annual estimates for B.C., the provinces, territories and Canada can be accessed via the BC Stats website: http://www.bcstats.gov.bc.ca

Inter-provincial migration flows significantly favoured B.C. over the last year, with the net addition of 9,367 persons from other parts of Canada. Saskatchewan was the next largest beneficiary of internal migration (+3,909), while Ontario had the greatest net loss (-7,275).

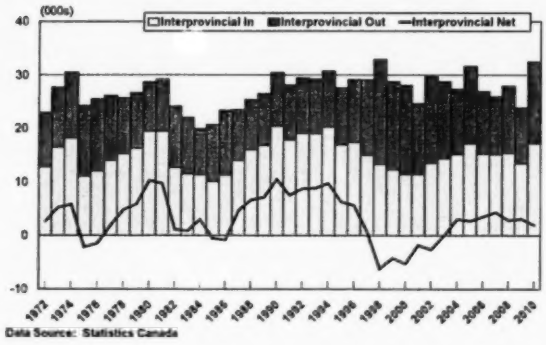
B.C. accounted for 16.2 percent of the 270,512 immigrants that landed in Canada between 2009 and 2010, behind Ontario (43.1%) and Quebec (19.0%), and ahead of Alberta (11.1%).

B.C. also attracted a significant share of non-permanent residents (NPRs) that come to Canada primarily to work and study. As of July 1, 2010, it is estimated that 22.5 percent of the 609,475 non-permanent residents in Canada are resident in B.C.; only Ontario (39.5%) has more resident NPRs

Second Quarter, 2010

During the second quarter of 2010, B.C. gained 17,218 and lost 15,256 inter-provincial migrants, resulting in the second highest net inter-provincial migration gain (+1,962) after Alberta (+2,802). B.C. received migrants from all regions in Canada with the exception of Nunavut during the second quarter. The largest numbers of in-migrants to the province arrived from Alberta (7,259) and Ontario (5,427). Natural increase (the excess of births over deaths) added 3,377 persons to the population, slumping 14.1 percent from the second quarter of 2009.

Fig 1: Inter-provincial Migration 2nd Quarter



Net international migration continued to be the main contributor to population growth, adding 10,139 persons to B.C.'s population. This includes a gain of 12,844 immigrants and 1,176 people who previously emigrated, but have returned to Canada. There were a total of 2,473 people who left B.C. for other countries.

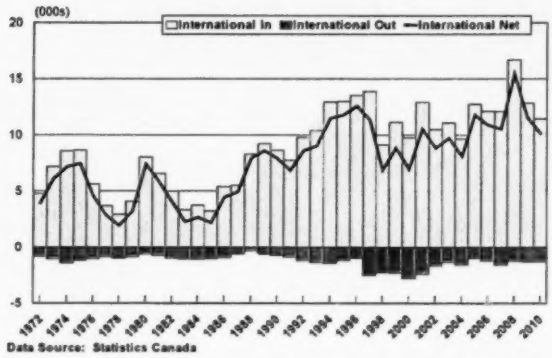
Second quarter population growth reflected improved performance for several economic indicators, including exports (+8.9%, seasonally adjusted), total employment (+0.5%) and manufacturing shipments (+1.6%, seasonally adjusted).

Statistics Canada recorded a total of 80,719 new landed immigrants in Canada during the second quarter of 2010, representing an increase of 15.9 percent compared to the second quarter of 2009. British Columbia continued to hold its position as one of the top three immigrant destinations in Canada.

Fig 2: International Migration 2nd Quarter 2010



In B.C., the number of arriving immigrants in the second quarter advanced 18.4 percent compared with the same period last year. In addition, B.C.'s share of total immigrant landings to Canada increased marginally. At 15.9 percent, B.C.'s share was just 0.3 percentage points higher than in the same period in 2009.

The top three source countries for immigrants to B.C. are all in Asia. For five consecutive quarters, China was the top source country of immigrants to B.C., representing 16.8 percent of the total. Immigrants from the Philippines accounted for 16.2 percent, while immigrants from India made up 15.1 percent. Other countries such as England (5.6%), South Korea (5.0%), and Taiwan (4.1%), each contributed a significant number of immigrants to B.C.

Data from Citizenship and Immigration Canada showed that immigrants categorized in the Skilled Worker class accounted for the largest share of landings in B.C. during the second quarter of 2010, closely followed by the Family class. During the second quarter, 5,391 immigrants landed in the province as Skilled Work class immigrants. Compared with landings in the second quarter of 2009, the number of immigrants in the Skilled Worker class was significantly higher (+60.5%). In contrast, B.C. received fewer Family class immigrants (-6.6%) compared to last year.

In the second quarter, nearly 84 percent of immigrants admitted to B.C. as Live-in Caregivers originated in the Philippines. China contributed the greatest share of Investor (56%) and Canadian Experience immigrants (30%). Many immigrants in the Provincial and Territorial Nominee class originated from Philippines (23%). For non-economic classes, 28 percent of Family class immigrants originated from India in the second quarter of 2010.
